A Bloom in Their Memory

Help Us Fill the Vase for Memorial Day

This May, we invite you to honor the memory of a loved one by adding a flower to our community vase. For every $5 donation (or simply as a heartfelt gesture - no donation required), you may choose an artificial flower from the display or bring one of your own. Each flower represents someone we carry in our hearts.

- Flowers will be placed in a large vase at the Fellowship table throughout the month of May.
- On Memorial Day Sunday, the filled vase will be placed on the altar during worship as a visual tribute to those we remember and cherish.
- Please place your gift in an envelope labeled "Memorial Gift" and place it in the offering plate or send it into the church office by May 31st. If you are paying by check, please make it out to "Asbury UMC - Memorial Gift". Cash donations may be placed in the jar next to the vase.

After worship on Memorial Day Sunday, join us for a special Fellowship with cake served in memory of our loved ones.

A NOTE FROM NEW DAY CHILDREN'S CENTER

Developing Children's Self-Esteem

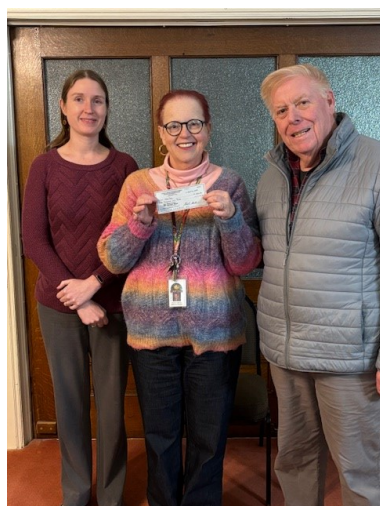

As early childhood professionals, we work hard to help children develop a positive self-concept. Developing this involves fostering children's sense of determination by providing opportunities for choices, responsibilities, and problem solving, while also validating their feelings and encouraging their curiosity. It's about letting them take on age-appropriate tasks and responsibilities, allowing them to explore their interests, and supporting them as they learn to navigate challenges and conflicts. The following words detail an important story from my own childhood regarding how I was able to develop positive self-esteem, while at the same time, overcoming several obstacles.

At the age of thirteen, I lived in a small suburban home with my mother and stepfather. My mother worked full time as a speech and language pathologist. My stepfather was a cruel man who abused pills and alcohol and relied on my mother to support him. Needless to say, we did not have much in the way of material things. My mother was a kind and caring woman who always wanted to help people. She was also a strict parent who believed in setting limits and the kind of discipline that would make me never want to do a bad thing again. I was not given choices and my feelings were not often validated. In addition, I was not encouraged or taught to navigate challenges and conflicts. I was also not encouraged to be independent.

Right before my thirteenth Christmas, my mother asked me what I wanted as a gift. It was then that I told her I wanted a sewing machine just like the one that I had been learning on in school. My grandmother had been an expert seamstress most of her life, and I watched her sew often as a child. My mother had no desire or ability to sew, but I had learned in school that I not only enjoyed this activity, but had a real aptitude for it as well. In a few days' time I found myself with my mother at a large department store that sold used sewing machines. Coming up the escalator to the second floor, I spotted it! This was the object that was to change my life forever. There it sat, the sewing machine just like the one I had learned on at school. It was placed in a rickety cabinet and we brought it home and placed it in my bedroom. I purchased material to make myself a dress with my allowance money. Thus, I began a lifetime of making clothing, not only for myself, but for others. From making historically accurate clothing to Bridal gowns and everything in between. This has been a gift that I have loved and cherished. Navigating the complexities of making garments has truly provided me with the ability to feel positive about myself and my abilities.

I tell this story because I believe there is a way for every child to develop positive self-esteem. At New Day Children's Center, we provide children with opportunities to feel positive about themselves and hope that they will continue to do so even after they leave our doors.

Executive Director

The Asbury Mission Committee voted to give New Day Children's Center a check for $1,000 to help cover the cost of setting up another classroom. This classroom will help meet the demand for more childcare in our area.
